VACANCY FOR AN INDEPENDENT SENIOR FELLOW IN
“Migration, Inclusion and Sustainability Policies: the role of Universities”

The Ceis-Economia-Tor Vergata Foundation wants to subcontract an independent senior research fellowship in collaboration with the University of Rome Tor Vergata, under the Third Mission of Universities, in order to improve its research activities on the field of Universities International Cooperation, in particular on the theme of Human Rights, Foreign Affairs, Migration and Social Inclusion.

The purpose of this research fellowship is “to investigate the role of Academic Institution in facing Emergency Crises, Migration, Humanitarian Affairs, as a part of the University Third Mission Activity”. The research will be conducted for the Ceis-Economia-Tor Vergata Foundation of the University of Rome Tor Vergata.

The fellowship involves a job of 6 months.

Participation requirements
The successful candidate must be an expert in Human Rights, International Cooperation and Complex Emergency situations carried out in Universities and Public International Bodies.

He/She must have:
1) Master Degree or equivalent;
2) Phd or Doctoral Degree, obtained before 2010 with a thesis concerning the research theme: Human rights and/or International Cooperation and/or Complex Emergency situations;
3) At least 15 years of experience in International Cooperation Programs, Migration, Inclusion and Sustainability issues in Universities and International and Cooperation Public Institutions;
4) Excellent English communication skills and Italian mother tongue;
5) Experience in University Cooperation in crisis areas, preferable Balkans, Middle East and Latin America.

Grant
The amount of the grant is 15.000 Euros (net amount).

Research topics
The research will focus on the role of University cooperation as an important tool to drive reconciliation between people divided by conflicts (such as in the Middle East and in the Balkans), and to foster peace, human rights and development.

The research should cover the role of Universities, in its Third Mission, in building partnerships with relevant actors, including international organizations, diplomacy, peace forces and NGOs in order to face real social problems and challenges. Their faculties should be engaged in the field and share their expertise and knowledge; this cooperation between academics will also be viewed as an essential means of contributing to intercultural and interfaith dialogue.

Specific Tasks:
